

Dr. Andrew Kirschner earned his doctorate in Educational Administration from Walden University, Master's in Educational Leadership from Florida Atlantic University, and bachelor's in Political Science from The George Washington University. He has worked as a school administrator and instructor in correctional facilities, higher education, and private and public schools in South Florida for 17 years. His primary research activities include service learning projects, curriculum design, effective writing strategies, and how students learn in online courses.