Dr. Derrick Cash
Program Director IT Department / Instructor
Keiser University

As a member of the Information Technology, Programming and Video Game Design Advisory Board for several years, I've been offered the opportunity to witness the impact that Keiser University has on its community. Before each meeting, recognition is given to local businesses that support the University by hiring its graduates, individuals that participate as advisors to the various educational committees, and graduates/alumni for their accomplishments in the "real world."

In our meetings, the University Staff and Faculty are always trying to find ways to fine tune their course offerings, adjust to current market conditions, and ensure that their students are prepared on all levels, not just academically, for the daily grind after graduation.

There is always a sense of appreciation from faculty, staff and students for my time and contribution. It is truly an honor to be a part of an organization that focuses its efforts in making an impact on its community by ensuring that they are well represented by the students that graduate from their programs.

Cordially,
