To Whom It May Concern,

As a School Counselor, I am constantly seeking out information regarding all avenues of continuing education. When I first met Regina Saldana from Keiser University, I was blown away by everything I learned about the school. Keiser has numerous opportunities for every type of student. I believe the thing that struck me the most was the amount of classes with hands-on instruction. Very few schools can make that claim as the pupil/instructor ratio is so off balance. I was also amazed by the number of campuses located throughout the state of Florida.

Regina comes every year and speaks with our Juniors and Seniors. She is a bundle of energy and a tremendous resource all rolled into one. The kids all love when she comes because she is so passionate about what she does. She not only speaks to the kids in the classes, but whenever I call her with an interested student, she moves mountains to come back up to Palm Coast to meet with the student on an individual basis.

As a parent, I visited Keiser (the Daytona Branch) with my daughter last summer. I was beyond impressed with the hands on activities student students were learning as we watched the Occupational Therapy classes at work. The students were completely engaged and motivated. I saw one of my former students, and was lucky enough to spend some time with her while my daughter was observing in the classroom. She told me that attending Keiser was the best decision that she ever made. She had recently transferred from another school and had learned more in 6 months at Keiser than she had in one semester at her former school.

I just feel like Keiser is the total package...excellent teachers, excellent support staff, several locations throughout the state, more programs of study than I can even name, and maybe most importantly, a very warm, very welcoming environment with which to learn and grow. I have visited several, several schools throughout the state. I have spoken with several academic advisors and admissions advisors throughout the state. NONE of these compare to Keiser.

Educationally yours,
