To Whom It May Concern,

Here at Tampa General Hospital we have had a flourishing relationship with Keiser University. Keiser University has a well-earned reputation for educating excellent surgical technology students both from a didactic and a clinical standpoint. As an extern site, Tampa General has been instrumental in evaluating and hiring many of the students that externed here at our facility.

Keiser University students are well prepared with serve the surgical patients in our community upon graduation and we are happy to be an extern stie for Keiser University.

I have been a Surgical Technologist at Tampa General Hospital for over 18 years and am currently the CST Educator for our department. TGH has been serving our community since 1927 with locations in several areas in the greater Tampa area.

In continuing our relationship with Keiser University, we will welcome and educate future students at our campus providing an excellent learning atmosphere while providing excellent patient care and services.
