

Dennis Ferraro
Student Services Director
Keiser University, Orlando

"I am proud to be a member of the Keiser University Advisory Board because it believes in providing the practical education that is relevant to today's environment and prepares it's student to immediately start adding value to the organizations they join in. Keiser University is important to our organization and community for providing graduates with the right training & education that really matters to our company by preparing them for what the real world has to offer and how to deal with it. The impact Keiser University has on the community and our organization i.e. Emergency Management Services (EMS) company has been very profound and impactful. We do and would definitely hire students/graduates from Keiser University."

Sincerely
