Dear Chris,

I wanted to thank Keiser University with their efforts to support (now Dr.) Emmanuel Wabeke, our Director-Information Technology on achieving his Doctorate Degree. When Emmanuel first approached me on his desire, I was frankly concerned about the time required to achieve his educational goals as well as his professional goals. He assured me that Keiser had culture of excellent student support to work with him to achieve his educational goals. It turns out that my being worried about his managing his hectic schedule was unfounded. He (and I) was most impressed with the support that he needed and in one case "even at midnight"!

In short, it is obvious that Keiser has a student centric approach, provides the tools the student needs to succeed, and a team approach to research. One of the side benefits of his education, is that his writing skills has significantly improved as a result of Keiser's efforts. Thank you.

Sincerely,
